The Commander-in-Chief of the Generalissimo's Headquarters in Canton and the Governor of Hong Kong exchange a friendly toast during Sir Alexander's very successful visit to Canton last week.

Delightfully informal pictures of Sir Alexander and Lady Grantham at home.

(Francis Wu Pages 3&7)

"At home" pictures of the stars of Two Cities film "Odd Man Out." (Right) Lovely and talented newcomer Kathleen Ryan. (Left) James Mason and his wife Pamela Kellino, both animal lovers, they spend an enjoyable interlude in the garden of their cottage with two of their many cats.

Greta Gynt, one of Britain's best dressed film stars, shortly to be seen in Gainsborough's "Dear Murderer" wears a fawn checked wool dress with buttons of brown swede edged with the fawn check of the dress.

A cocktail suit of grey flannel. The interest of this ensemble lies in the blending of colour and the accessories—a sable muff with sable hat to match.

The charm of this dress is its simplicity—of fine grey tweed it has detachable white pique waistcoat, also cuffs and trimmings.

CURRENT EVENTS.

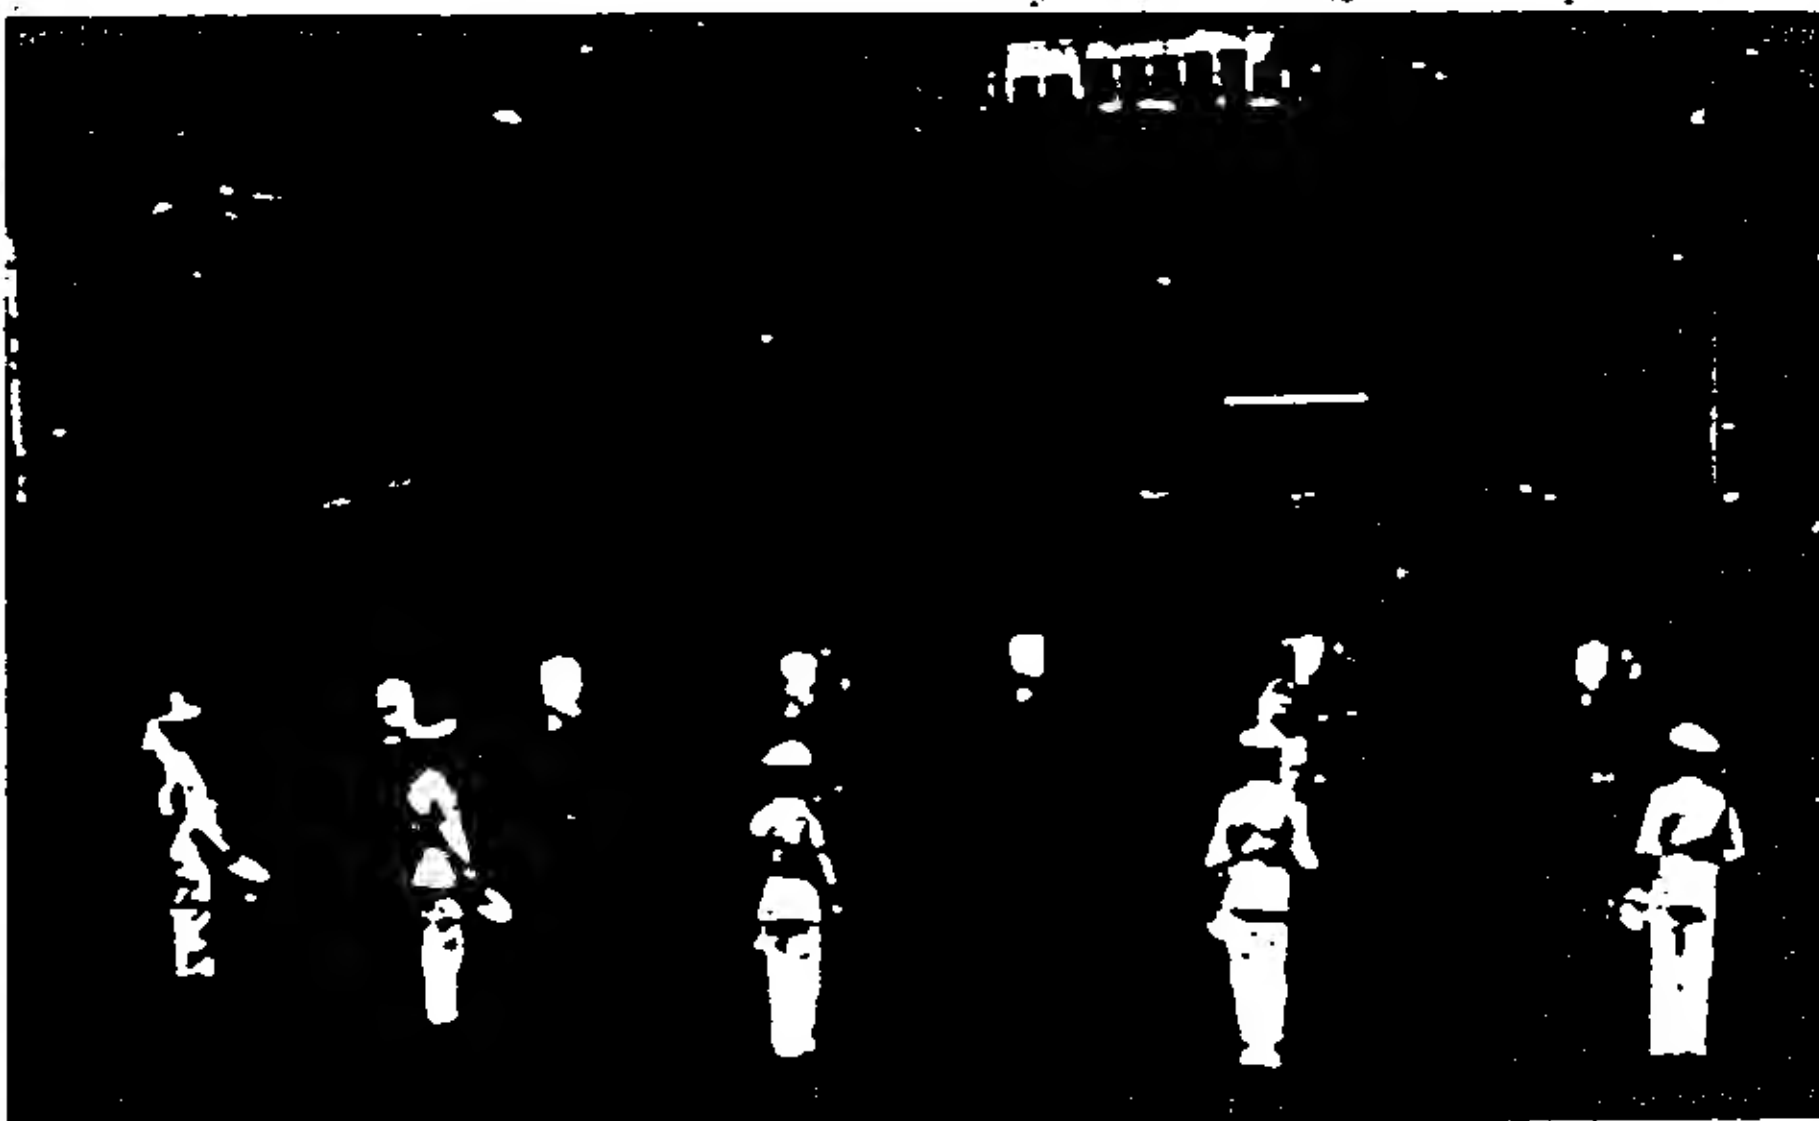

The French Ambassador to China, M. Meyrier, en route to Nanking was met at Kai Tak by M. Jobez, French Consul in Hong Kong. (King's Studio)

The Public Relations Officer (Mr. J. H. B. Lee) entertained the Chinese. Mr. Lee is seated fourth from the left in the front row. The Chinese Unofficial Members and by the Colonial Secretary.

Two well known Hong Kong families unite. Mr. W. R. Young of the Hong Kong Police and Miss Lucy Millar were married at St. Paul's on the 3rd of September. The Rev. Edward Y. P. Lee officiated. (Francis Wu)

The pipers of the Inniskillings gave an exhilarating show on the Liberation Day. In spite of the weather, a very large crowd attended.

The wedding of Mr. Chauncey Newcomb, of the Everett Steamship Company, and Mrs. Eleanor Green took place at the Supreme Court on Monday, 1st September. (Francis Wu)

The Buffs cocktail party last week at Stanley Barracks was a great success. The Governor and Lady Grantham arriving and (below) some of the party. Gardner of the Buffs (on left) Mr. W. T. Dobson, Mrs. A. J. Moss, Mr. Chas. M. Rowe of Adelaide. (King's Studio)

Hong Kong Buddhists honoured Chief Abbot Hui Wan at a luncheon party last week. Hui Wan, who is one hundred and one years old, came from the Wan Noon temple in Northern Kwangtung to take part in the recent memorial service at Caroline Hill. (Golden Studio)

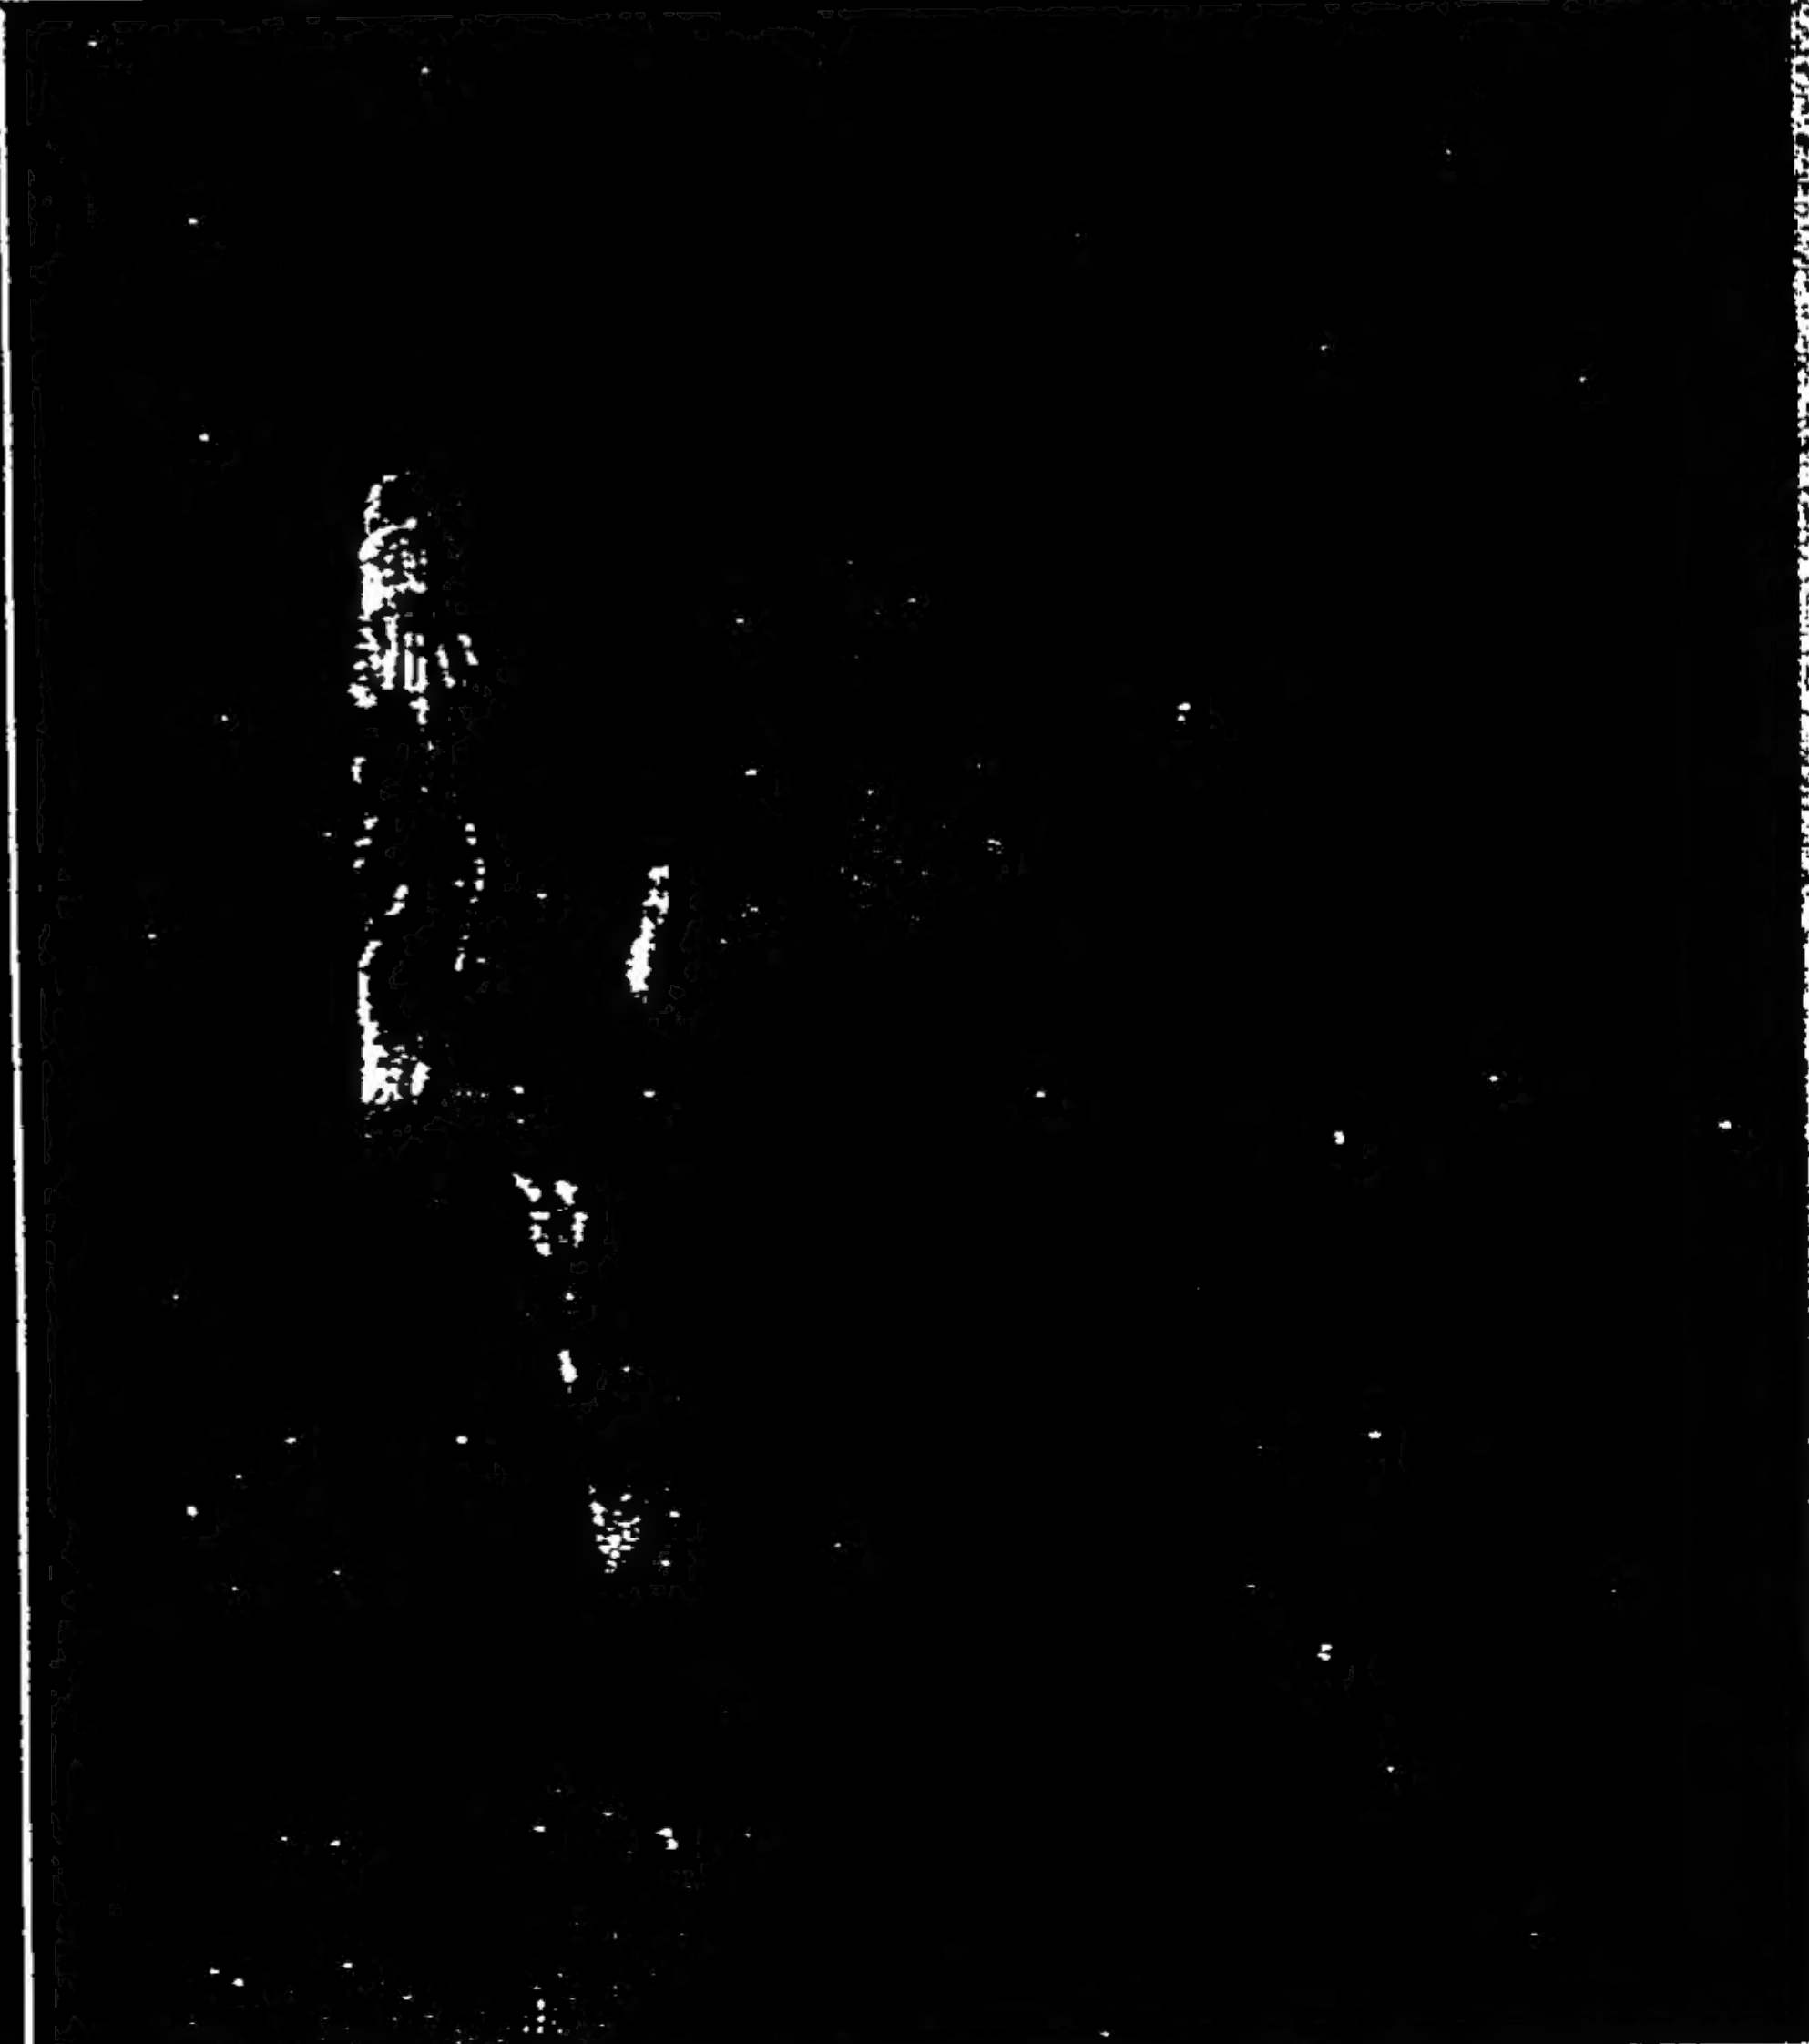

POLICE TRAINING SCHOOL

The training school is housed in temporary quarters in Kowloon. It provides basic training for raw recruits and also refresher courses for old hands under the supervision of Superintendent MacKenzie. Our cameraman got these pictures last week of a batch of new constables starting their three months course. The training is intensive and its effect is well illustrated by the two bottom pictures. The men on the left are new entrants; the five on the right are the finished product. They have completed their training course and are ready for posting to regular police duty.

After two years separation ex-Emperor Bao Dai of Annam was reunited with his family in Hong Kong last Wednesday. The ex-Emperor has been living in retirement in the Colony for some time. The ex-Empress and her five children arrived from Saigon by air. The pictures above give a glimpse of the reunion at Kai Tak. The ex-Empress is shown at top left immediately after landing: the ex-Emperor is seen at top right arriving to meet his wife.
